

Is Belief In God Irrational?

A lecture by
Meghan Sullivan
Professor of Philosophy, Notre Dame

Nov. 16, 2017
7 p.m. • Kimball Theatre
Hunter Conservatory
Free and open to the public

Notre Dame philosophy professor Meghan Sullivan shares the journey by which – to her own surprise – she became convinced by the truth-claims of the Christian faith, and explores the top three questions she has wrestled with in terms of the rationality of holding to a “thick” and complex belief-system.

Sponsored by the Philosophy Department and the Office of Religious and Spiritual Life, with support from the Smead Endowment

WHITMAN COLLEGE

Co-sponsored by The Veritas Forum

The VERITAS FORUM
